PRESS RELEASE

POMONA CAPITAL NAMED BEST SECONDARIES HOUSE BY PRIVATE EQUITY WIRE

New York, London, Hong Kong – Sept. 27, 2019 – Pomona Capital, a global private equity firm specializing in secondaries investing, announced today that it has been named "Best Secondaries House" by industry publication Private Equity Wire.

The Private Equity Wire awards recognize the best private equity managers, consultants, advisers and service providers in a range of categories covering the global private equity space. The publication serves wealth advisers, institutional investors and investment managers around the world. Winners are based on a 'peer review system' whereby Private Equity Wire readers select a 'best in class' across different divisions.

"At Pomona, our mission is to construct portfolios of high quality assets with lower risk profiles and near-term liquidity for our investors," said Michael D. Granoff, CEO, Pomona Capital. "We are honored to be named the Best Secondaries House by Private Equity Wire and its readership of industry peers and global investors."

Founded in 1994, Pomona is one of the earliest pioneers in the secondary private equity investing space. Pomona is a trusted strategic partner to a global base of investors, including public pensions, insurance companies, corporate pensions, sovereign wealth funds, endowments & foundations, and family offices.

Launched in 2007, Private Equity Wire publishes PE news and features for LPs and GPs as well as their service providers. The publication issues daily news over its website and covers reports, research, awards and events for the global PE industry.
